About Dr. Lopate

Dr. Lopate received a MS in reproductive physiology from The Ohio State University in 1987 and she graduated from the same in 1991 with her DVM. She completed a residency in comparative theriogenology at Purdue University in 1997 and became board certified in the same year. She has worked in a variety of practice settings including general mixed practice, referral practice and academia. She is currently a co-owner of a reproductive referral practice serving companion animal and equine patients and a co-owner of a 6 doctor general small animal practice.

Seminar Details

This seminar is a no-brainer for all dog breeders, but especially breeders of Entlebuchers. Our dogs have had a history of inconsistent breedings during the last couple of decades. This is especially true with the method of Artificial Insemination. Dr. Lopate will present an in-depth explanation of the very latest techniques and scientific research which will provide attendees with a clear and concise protocol to refer to during AI breedings. Of course, no method is 100% guaranteed, but what she has to share may change how you conduct your next breeding.

Who Should Attend?

This seminar is unique because this is a fascinating topic, not just for breeders, but for all entlebucher enthusiasts. There have been so many technological and scientific advances in canine reproduction in the last ten years! Come join us and learn all about it!

Additional Benefits

You are welcome to submit questions related to the topic to Dr. Lopate. Submit to breeding@nemda.org no later than Saturday, July 1st. Dr. Lopate will answer them during the presentation as time allows.
